TO THE PUBLIC.—SO MANY FALSE STATEMENTS bare been circulated through the public press, by designing theiridants, relative to my participation in what is commonly called "The late Ceal Frands," that I deem it but an act of justice, not only to my self but to those with whom I am connected that I should at an early day present to you a precise statement af the facts as they really exist, sustained not merely by assertion but a participation of the fact of the pension of public opinion until such statement is placed before them.

Heckecherville, July 30, 1853.

Mr. B. Bannan—The recent developments of the extraordinary operations of cectain coldenaria and the extraordinary operations of cectain coldenaria and the fill road has naturally aroused unach ubblic attention, and sail concur that these transactions affect all those interested in the coal trade of your county. Movements to eradicate such comes of injury to your interests have been pretty effectually made, and while this work of reformation is going on allow me. Mr. Editor, to call your attention to much greater frauds and far more injurious to your interest. I refer to the habit of false consignments of coal from Port Richmend to New York, that have been pretty extensively practized by some partice here. It is known that the Reading Kailroad Company have allowed a drawback to thirty cents per ten on coal sent to New York, as early as the year 1848 or 1849. That said drawback has been granted to certain shippers from that time until the present mement and is still in existence, the drawback waying sometimes higher than the amount above stated, then gain reducing it, as the circumstances of the case would require. This was done to enable the Richmond dealers to compete with the canal of your region and the Lackawans. Now the practice among the parties referred to has been falsely consign coal, destined for Beaton or Providence, to New York and then reconsign to Hoston or Providence to New York and then reconsign to Hoston or Providence to Revenue for the consign coal, destined for Beaton or Providence, to New York and then reconsign to Hoston or Providence, to New York and then reconsign to Hoston or Providence, to New York and then reconsign to Hoston or Providence, to New York and then reconsign to Hoston or Providence, to New York and then reconsign to Hoston or Providence.
